An opinion piece by Sunday Territorian Deputy Editor KYLIE STEVENSON addressing the issue of asylum seekers attracted a deluge of comments this week. Here's an edited sample of what you are saying at www.ntnews.com.au

If we allow all of them in then there will be millions

SO LET me get this straight... If you're against RICH (let's be real about this, they have to pay 10-20 grand to get on a boat) people paying to get on an a boat organised by criminals to jump the queue to get into Australia... you're a bogon? How about we send them to Somalia and let them live the hardships of legitimate refugees for 8-10 years in a refugee camp before they get processed? Perhaps they won't protest on top of their air-conditioned accomodation wanting to be hurried through immigration.

WHAT utter rubbish. Because we make it hard there is only a few thousand asylum seekers. If we allow all of them in then, there will be millions of them.

YOUR NEXT LIFE STARTS THIS SUMMER

You can start a degree this summer, without the need to wait until 2012.

Charles Darwin University delivers a flexible, adult-friendly campus community to your home, so you can study online, part-time and spread your study across three semesters instead of two. This allows you to study, meet your commitments and start your next life.

If you haven't studied year 12, completion of the Tertiary Enabling Program (TEP) gives adults the entry requirements to most CDU degrees. TEP is free and can be studied online from home.
