The 2014 Young Achiever Awards launch tomorrow at Charles Darwin University. The annual awards, supported by the Sun Newspapers, recognise the contribution young people make to communities across the Territory. This year there are three new categories. Everyone is invited to the launch, and to nominate a young achiever. Nominees must be aged between 14 and 27, and their achievements must fall into one of the following categories:

- The Minister for Young Territorians Excellence in Youth Leadership Award
- The Northern Territory Government Small Business Achievement Award
- The Northern Territory Government Young Carer’s Award
- The Northern Territory Government Young Indigenous Educator Award
- The AustralianSuper Career Kick Start Award
- The Charles Darwin University Arts Award
- The Glencore McArthur River Mining Regional and Rural Initiative Award
- The ConocoPhillips Environment Award
- The Somevile Community Service Award
- The PTTEP Australasia Health & WellBeing Award
- The Genesis & Wyong Indigenous Achievement Award
- The Zip Print Sports Award

This year all young achiever winners will receive $2000 thanks to TIO and a handcrafted glass trophy. Winners will be announced in Darwin at a gala dinner presentation hosted by SkyCity on November 11.

Look out for nomination coupons in your weekly Sun Newspaper, visit awardsaustralia.com or phone 1300 735 445. Nominations close Friday, November 28.

The launch takes place tomorrow at 9.15am at Lecture Theatre Blue 1.1.01, CDU, Ellengowan Drive, Casuarina. RSVP by 5pm today, phone 1300 735 445.
