The Handmaid's Tale

Thursday, SBS, 9pm,

Bleak, dark and terrifying, The Handmaid's Tale is a modern-day horror story which speaks to the masses. Based on the novel by Canadian author Margaret Atwood, the series is now in its third season, delving deeper into the story of Gilead and its post apocalyptic world. The source material was tapped dry after season one, but the series is doing a remarkable job of staying true to the spirit of the 1985 bestseller. June (Elisabeth Moss, pictured) has displayed true grit and tenacity (some may call some of her decisions ludicrous), but it's hard to guess what her fate will ultimately be. Death or triumph? Fast-tracked from the US, it's nailbiting viewing.

Gardening Australia

Friday, ABC, 7.30pm, G

To devotees of Gardening Australia, it's no surprise that host Costa Georgiadis (pictured) has nabbed a Gold Logie nomination this year. A larger-than-life personality who embodies passion and enthusiasm for all facets of gardening, especially community and eco initiatives, he stands out for much more than his gloriously large and unruly beard. Also known also as the garden gnome in lovable kids' series Get Grubby TV, this is a man of many talents, with one being the ability to make just about anyone smile. Responsible for drawing a younger audience to the 30-year-old show, Georgiadis's enthusiasm is just as inspiring as the gardens on show. Tune in for your fill of Georgiadis tonight.

Beat The Internet

Saturday, SBS Viceland, 6.30pm, G

Quiz shows are usually straight-and-narrow affairs. Respectable questions about history, geography, popular culture and the like are fielded to knowledgeable contestants who probably delight in spending their weekends scouring encyclopaedias rather than heading out for smashed avocado on toast. Which is admirable, really. But this unique offering isn't your traditional show. If you find yourself speculating how Google will fill in the blanks when you type a query into the search engine, this show is your jam. Comedian John Robbins is the host and the aim is to finish the internet's most popular search terms. Tonight is the season's double-episode finale.
